Winter Concert: Prelude to Season Fifteen

During the dark days of December, the holidays are coming towards us like a freight train and we're still not quite braced for the months of snow and ice ahead. Time to pull up a pew and relax into the heat and blazing light of the 2010-2011 edition of the Grand Rapids Women's Chorus, now 50 women strong! Our traditional winter (not holiday) concert is your first chance to hear songs we've been memorizing since September and the many new members who have joined us for this, our fifteenth season.

The audience at Trinity United Methodist Church on Saturday, December 4, can expect another fresh, culturally diverse song set. You'll hear a lovely Celtic-influenced piece, The Blessing, a traditional Israeli folk dance tune, Hine Ma Tov, a children's song from Japan, Hotaru Koi, and a soaring Native American prayer, Great Spirit. We've been amazed and delighted by our soloists, both new and returning, and know that you will be too. You'll also see our new outfits - yes, the body-hugging dragonflies are gone!

Last year, the roar of applause from the packed house at Trinity was the first sign of our most amazing season ever, which included a '60s revival at the Spring Concert, and peaked at the Sister Singers Network conference in Chicago. You blessed us with energy that inspired us all year! We hope to return the favor this December.

Join us for our short (one hour or less) concert of interesting and uplifting music at 7:30pm (doors open at 7:00) on Saturday, December 4. Trinity United Methodist Church is located at 1100 Lake Drive between downtown and Eastown in Grand Rapids. Refreshments and a meet-the-chorus gathering follow in the beautiful parish hall. No tickets needed, but donations are always welcomed!

This season reminds me of the words of poet Emily Bronte:

*Fall, leaves, fall; die, flowers, away;
 Lengthen night and shorten day;
 Every leaf speaks bliss to me
 Fluttering from the autumn tree.*

*I shall smile when wreaths of snow
 Blossom where the rose should grow;
 I shall sing when night's decay
 Ushers in a drearier day.*

We sing as the leaves fall and usher in a fifteenth year to continue a tradition “dedicated to performing music that celebrates and honors the diversity of women’s lives”.

We hope you continue to support us financially as we educate the community on issues important to our world, supportive of our principles, and congruent to our hearts and souls.

Singing the Praises of Rosa Parks

GRWC sings Rosa Sat, featuring soloist Gabrielle Groot, at the Rosa Parks Sculpture Dedication

On September 30, 2010 the Grand Rapids Women’s Chorus played a part in local history at the Rosa Parks Sculpture Dedication in downtown Grand Rapids. The ceremony at Rosa Parks Circle included music, dance, poetry, and testimonials. The GRWC sang Amy Dixon-Kolar’s Rosa Sat to a spirited crowd that rose to its feet with applause. The performance featured soloist Gabrielle Groot, accompanist Blithe Brouwers, and percussionist Sue Brown. It was introduced by GRWC’s DeDe Esque.

The unveiling of a bronze statue of Rosa Parks followed the dedication program. Atop a black marble pedestal, the statue shows the civil rights icon standing in front of a metal frame bus seat. It was created by Texas artist Ed Dwight and is the city’s first depicting an African American. The statue stands proudly at the park’s entrance on the corner of Pearl Street NW and Monroe Avenue.

GRWC Blows Them Away in Windy City

The Grand Rapids Women's Chorus was very busy over the fourth of July weekend this past summer in Chicago. Participating in the Sister Singers Network Choral Festival at Loyola University, GRWC members were among the events facilitators, directors, performers, merchants, and guest musicians.

Twenty-four choral groups nationwide attended the four day festival hosted by Chicago's Artemis Singers. Opening events included a stunning performance by the GRWC small ensemble directed by Martha VanderEyck with Blithe Brouwers as accompanist.

The GRWC performed July 3 in a Saturday night concert at Loyola's historic Mundelein Center. Joan Szymko, director of the Aurora Chorus in Portland Oregon, had this to say about the GRWC and its performance of her composition The Peace of Wild Things by Wendell Berry: "It was wonderful to hear the Grand Rapids Women's Chorus and to meet Lori Tennenhouse. Many, many Aurora singers placed the GRWC among Chicago's favorites and I concur. A powerful, diverse set; well sung! Your performance of The Peace of Wild Things captured the arc of the music. I was particularly pleased with the section 'who do not tax their lives with forethought of grief' as the voice parts were clearly etched into the fabric. Several women, both familiar and unfamiliar with this piece, told me that afterwards they wept... another testament to your fine performance".

Other music performed by the GRWC included an opening Zulu piece Thulele Mama with soloist Elise Brown, True Colors with soloist Gabrielle Groot, and Summertime from Porgy and Bess, directed by Brenda Baker. All received standing ovations.

The Festival finale included a dance party, outdoor reception on the shores of Lake Michigan, and spectacular fireworks over Chicago's skyline.

Bus transportation to and from the Windy City was funded by GRWC supporter Charlie Homeyer and a generous portion of festival expenses were covered by contributions from Mary Jane Bobier.

Support Staff

Mary Jane Bobier loves the Grand Rapids Women's Chorus and the feeling is mutual. Her recent contribution of over five thousand dollars makes the ninety five year old the sole member of the GRWC's Oratorio Club.

Music has always been a part of Mary Jane's life. Playing the piano, trombone, organ, and harp as well as singing in church choirs are all in her lifetime repertoire.

Mary Jane contributes to the GRWC because she loves its music, thinks its mission is courageous, and finds its musical choices and programming both entertaining and thought provoking. She is interested in all aspects of the GRWC and keeps in the know through her daughter, Lynn Weaver, a chorus alto and member of the small ensemble.

Careers and passions in the yesteryears for Mary Jane Bobier included Great Lakes watercraft piloting, teaching meteorology classes, and managing a mobile home park. Today she enjoys playing cribbage and euchre, tailoring, and creating handcrafted greeting cards using pressed flowers.

She is the mother of three children, the widow of federal court judge the Honorable Harold H. Bobier, and grandmother of one granddaughter and thirteen-year-old triplet grandsons.
